LOCAL MATTER.

E. C. WOODSON, City Editor

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Have you registered?

Anderson, again to-night.

The weather is cool and bracing.

Wood is in demand and selling at tall figures.

Do not fail to register. Go to-day if you have not already done so.

Martin and Wilmington streets were completely blocked with cotton yesterday.

No Mayor's court yesterday; the police all quiet and the city on its good behavior.

The raffle for the revolving stereopticon comes off to-day promptly at 12 o'clock, at Clawson's Art Gallery.

If you have changed your residence from one Ward to another you must register in the Ward you reside in.

Miss Leona Anderson will charm and attract the audience with her dazzling beauty again this evening at Tucker Hall.

There will be a meeting of W. G. Hill Lodge, No. 218, this (Wednesday) night at 7 o'clock, for work in the First Degree.

There will be a fine gold watch and chain raffled off at Miller and Nelson's Saloon on Saturday night at 10 o'clock. Thirty chances at $2.00 per chance.

The passage through the streets yesterday of a strolling band of Gypsies was about the only excitement of the day. They are camped near the Mineral Springs.

Sheriff R. M. White, of Mecklenburg, was in the city yesterday and closed up his final career as Sheriff, by a final settlement with the State Treasurer, as he declined a renomination for that position at the late election. Mr. White has been Sheriff of Mecklenburg for ten years past, and during that time he has never been a day behind in his settlements. The Departments in this city regret and deplore his loss as a public officer.

THE HORSE MALADY.—The effects of the Malady are extending South, it not the disease.

From the enclosed letter to Col W. H. Tucker, of the firm of W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co., from a large Silk House of New York, it will be seen that our ladies are also suffering from the effects of the malady:

New York, Oct. 26, 1872.

Dear Col.—Your esteemed order to hand, which I have filled, but sorry to say will not be able to ship by to-day's steamer, owing to the fact we can't get drays for love or money, as all the horses in the city are sick, and to-day and all day yesterday we have had a severe storm. There must be to-day no less than 100,000 horses laid up. Very few omnibuses or cars are running. Mr. Eldridge has sent up the country for oxen, and says his goods shall be shipped if he has to drive them himself. If the weather clears up I think the horses will get better. You had better look out for the disease is spreading rapidly. It came from Canada here.

With great respect, I am most truly,

JOHN G. LOXE.

THE COTTON MARKET.—The steady advance in this staple for the past four days, tends a great deal to stimulate the city trade and produce a better feeling generally. The dispatches yesterday were eagerly looked for, as it was generally considered, and properly so, that the condition of the market would rule the prices for November. The contracts for October, it is more than reasonable to suppose, would be closed on yesterday or five days before the end of the month, and the quotations now are based upon November sales. This is why the market dispatches of this morning are considered of strict importance.

The announcement of an advance yesterday had the effect of radiating the faces of both buyer and seller with smiles, the dry goods merchants to feel easy, and all of us more comfortable.

SHERIFF'S COMING IN.—R. M. White, Sheriff of Mecklenburg county, yesterday settled in full with the State Treasurer the amount of State taxes from his county for 1872, as follows:

Public tax, $8,240.35

Special tax, $5,826.29

Educational purposes, $20.50

Total, $14,446.55

R. McMillan, Sheriff of Robeson, settled in full from his county, as follows:

Public tax, $2,588.56

Special tax, $1,413.91

Educational purposes, $50.05

MULES! MULES!—Wm. T. Rogers, one of the most favorably known mule dealers that ever visited our market in town with 40 head of fine Kentucky mules, may be found at Dunn's stables. He has also three or four extra fast buggy horses, all of which he will sell on favorable terms. Call early.

21.

THE PEACE INSTITUTE.—As one of the many visitors at the Peace Institute last evening, I desire to express the real pleasure I had as a friend of the great cause of education, at every thing I saw and heard on the occasion of this, the first opening of what promises to be a most successful enterprise in the right direction for the moral, intellectual and religious advancement of our people.

The weather was unpromising, but notwithstanding this, the company assembled was large and appreciative.

The whole building was beautifully illuminated from cellar to turret, with gas from our city company, which has most successfully arranged that no portion of this beautiful building shall be deficient in this most important particular. The visitors were shown through all the halls, recitation rooms, and other departments of this large edifice. Every thing was complete, and we inwardly felt and asked ourselves why should our people continue to send our daughters to the North, when they can get an education equally as good and much better suited to our condition and sympathies than can possibly be obtained in "New England" or elsewhere out of our own dear South. This is from no "sectarian or sectional" sentiment, but an anxious desire for the cause of education, and the inculcation of principles, moral and religious, while our own people approve and which are taught in the real doctrines of the Bible. Among the other enjoyments of the evening was a "real treat" in music, rarely had in this country. In the largest Hall of this large building the Company assembled, and listened to exquisite strains of music from Professor Baughman, and his most accomplished wife, who is a real "artiste" in music. One of the pieces played on the piano, was from the original composition of Professor Baughman, entitled "Hope," a duet which was exquisitely executed by the Professor and his lady, Miss Lucy, too, sang and performed most excellently well. But the crowning glory of the musical performance, was that of Miss Hannah, of Virginia.

It was exquisitely touching and natural, and reminded me very much of the case and grace of Jenny Lind.

This Miss Hannah does not seem to know the great gift with which she has been blessed, and which has been so highly cultivated by her most successful teacher, Professor Baughman. She sings just like a bird warbler, and without the least stage effect, she sings on, without pretense or affectation, and seems perfectly unconscious of the power she possesses.

The writer of this has heard the first operatic singers in Europe and America, and hesitates not to say, that with continued and proper cultivation, she could appear successfully on any stage, and before the most artistic and critical audience.

The "Peace Institute" is destined to work a great good in North Carolina and the South. It is now only in the second month of its existence, and it has some sixty pupils. The building itself and all its arrangements are all that could be desired—spacious, well ventilated, heated with furnaces well arranged, gas lights throughout, with all modern improvements, at the metropolis of the State, accessible from all points, beautifully located, and under most excellent management, and a most competent faculty, it must and will succeed.

IS IT EVEN SO.—One of North Carolina's most distinguished sons lies buried in Hinds county, Miss., near an old and almost deserted village, with out even a head board to mark the spot or an enclosure around the grave.

Hon. Charles Fisher, of Rowan county, one of the most distinguished men of his day, died at Hillsboro, Scott county, Miss., on his way home from the South on the 7th day of May, 1849, where his remains now lie as above stated.

Will the Legislature of North Carolina, which is shortly to convene, or even the County Commissioners of Rowan permit the remains of their most illustrious son thus to remain in obscurity.

His name adorns the brightest page of our State history. He represented the county of Rowan in the State Senate in 1818; the Salisbury District in the county Miss., in 1819; re-elected to U. S. Congress in 1820; re-elected to U. S. Congress, and 1821-32, was the Speaker of that body, where he presided with marked distinction, when it was composed of such men as Nash, Henry, Eccles, Hill, Bragg and others. He was a member of the State Convention of 1835, and in 1839 was again brought forward as a candidate for Congress, and was elected over the talented and popular Dr. Pleasant Henderson, by a majority of 189 votes.

He was again nominated for the Democratic party in 1845. This was the most exciting and important canvass of his life. Wheeler says: "The District was large; he addressed his fellow-citizens at every place he possibly could, at great length, and often twice a day; sometimes active in writing and sending printed addresses to the people."

In this election he was beaten twenty-seven votes by the Hon. D. M. Barringer, the present Chairman of the Conservative State Executive Committee. This was the only defeat he ever sustained before the people. He was afterwards nominated by his party for Governor, but declined on account of ill health.

This is but a brief sketch of the history of this great man whose neglect by the State, by his county, by the people, we complain of. We believe the sum could be easily raised by private contributions to bring his remains to this city or Rowan county. We have been already authorized by the Hon. D. M. Barringer to say that he will contribute liberally to this object, but we think the Legislature of North Carolina should take this matter in hand and make an appropriation for the purpose.

PAID OVER.—L. E. Hart, Treasurer for the Dent, Lomb and Bilad Institute, drew yesterday $6,250 for the support of the Institution from the State Treasurer.

INTERESTING CEREMONY.—One of the most interesting bridal ceremonies which has ever taken place in our city occurred at the Baptist Church at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, Rev. Dr. T. H. Pritchard, officiating.

Long before the hour appointed, the spacious and elegant church was filled to repletion by the elite of the city, who had been invited to witness the nuptial ceremony on the occasion of the marriage of Edmund Jones, Esq., the popular young Representative in the House from Caldwell county, and Miss Eugenia, the truly accomplished, lovely and most estimable daughter of Maj. A. M. Lewis.

At 9 o'clock the bridesmaids and couple and members of their families, drew up in front of the Church in carriages. The waiter, preceded by the father and mother of the groom and other relatives, halted for a few moments at the vestibule and then walked up the aisle in the following order, while the organ pealed forth a bridal march.—Miss Ella Williams and Capt. S. T. Williams, Miss Anna Hinton and W. S. Mason, Miss Sue Pescud and Paul B. Means, Miss Lee Jeffery and P. S. Pescud, Jr., Miss Josie Branch and Capt. R. T. Norwood, Miss Fannie Callendine and L. W. Barringer, Miss Meta Devoreux and Robert Heath, Miss Pot Bryce and A. M. Lewis, Jr., and Miss May Jones and William G. Lewis—the bride and groom following the last named couple.

Dr. Pritchard, in the most impressive manner, performed the ceremony, the bride being given away by her father. The waters, preceded by the newly wedded couple, while the organ played a most solemn and appropriate march, left the church and drove to the depot, accompanied by many friends who showered their congratulations and best wishes upon the bride and groom.

There was no serious damage done, however, to either party, nor yet to the railroad bridge, which the steamer party was attempting to remove at Neuse river.

Fabre Stowe, no relation to Aunt Harriet Beecher, but an ancient colored individual, says to his brethren through the columns of the Camilla "Enterprise," as follows:

I have just come out to tell you how Grant tried to sell you. With the broad swill and velvet slippers New York rogues and stage coach nippers.

I was born in Lincoln county, North Carolina. We don't exactly understand the concluding lines of Fabre's epic, but we would have bet he was from North Carolina.

By a Southern Lady, who feels and resents the insults of the "mercenary importation."

"Should the nettie merit the premium offered, it shall be equally divided between the two Africans who offered themselves as living sacrifices to 'Carpet-bagging,' by partially denuding their craniums to furnish material with which to adorn the article."

Geo. H. Pendleton Speaking for Greeley and Brown in Chicago. His invocation to all True Democrats.

Mr. Pendleton and Governor-elect Hendricks spoke at the great Liberal mass meeting in Chicago on Tuesday. In the course of his remarks, speaking of the duty of Democrats at this time, Mr. Pendleton said:

The great body of the Democratic party, instinct with courage and with patriotism, responded promptly to the appeal and the endorsement at Baltimore of the action of the Liberals at Cincinnati. They concluded to lay aside all minor differences of opinion and all prejudices in their present organization, and unite in restoring peace and purity to the Government. Humanity has been ennobled by deeds of self-denial and self-devotion. Men have dared to die for their friends and their God, but all history does not show a more magnificent example of self-denial than this of the Democratic party. At the call of patriotism it stifled the cry of party. At the command of the country, it silenced the voice of prejudice, of pride, of ambition, of honest, lifelong antagonism, and united with these Liberal Republicans in the presence of this great calamity, and to avoid this danger, adopting their platform and their candidate.

That candidate had been the earnest, determined, bitter, persistent, able opponent of the Democratic party; but then he was right on the questions of the day. The party would be faithful to him as he had been faithful in the cause. It would bring to his support all the power of a great organization, its history, its traditions. It would give up all the claims to the honors, the offices, the emoluments that peace should be restored to an afflicted people. The Democratic party had shown itself to be great in triumph, greater still in the consistency with which it has borne danger, and darkness, and defeat, but greatest of all in this act of self-abnegation, it had laid aside every aspiration, every human weakness, in the hope of benefiting its country. The effort might fail, but it was worthy the faith of the martyr, worthy the courage of the devoted, and worthy of a just God. It had been said that this reconciliation and purification. It was this, and more. It had been said that it meant a great administration of constitutional law. It meant this and more. That underlying the struggle of parties in our country, and animating those struggles, lies a spirit of patriotism, a love of country which rises supreme in the presence of the peril of the country, and still speaks to silence every other aspiration, except for its safety. That spirit is abroad in the movement now. That spirit is now consolidating its forces. It speaks to Democrats and to Republicans now, and while it invokes that patriotism, it promises security to all our material interests, protection to commerce at home and abroad; protection to manufacturers; stability to legislation, to capital; freedom from governmental influence, and subjection to the laws of trade; to labor, a freer enjoyment of the rewards of its industry; to all freedom from corruption, from debauchery, from that base, sordid, selfish spirit which rules the Administration; to all, merchant, agriculturist, lawyer, professional man, laborer, the free enjoyment of the rewards which industry can gain in the fruitful fields of a peaceful people and a reunited country. Could any Democrat at doubt to-day the duty which patriotism exacted of him? Could any Democrat be afraid of his constancy and honor? When wisdom, honor, patriotism spoke, should not the Democracy obey? The speaker did not expect that if Mr. Greeley were elected he would give them a partisan Democratic Administration. It would be inconsistent with the spirit of the movement which carried him into power. He had promised to restore peace, fraternity and good faith to the people of the country; to give them a sound civil-service reform; that he would introduce honor and honesty into the Administration of the Government. It would be folly for the Democratic party to refuse to accept these acquisitions because they could not get more. At this point the speaker read an extract from Greeley's letter of acceptance, showing that he had promised to do that was acceptable to the Democratic party, and entirely consistent with its principles. He asked if that was not good Democratic doctrine? If it were the prevailing spirit of Greeley's Administration, if the Democrats could not get into the possession of the Federal Government, should one of their tried and trusted men, should they refuse to take Horace Greeley with these doctrines, and thus proscribe the reinstatement in power of Grant with all his errors and wrong ways?

I have just come out to tell you how Grant tried to sell you. With the broad swill and velvet slippers New York rogues and stage coach nippers.

I was born in Lincoln county, North Carolina. We don't exactly understand the concluding lines of Fabre's epic, but we would have bet he was from North Carolina.

We have already given a description in our local column of the carpet bag nettie which took Nason's special premium at the Goldsboro Fair. Appended to the nettie was a note of which the following is a copy:

To Mr. George W. Nason, Jr., "Carpet-bagger."

By a Southern Lady, who feels and resents the insults of the "mercenary importation."

"Should the nettie merit the premium offered, it shall be equally divided between the two Africans who offered themselves as living sacrifices to 'Carpet-bagging,' by partially denuding their craniums to furnish material with which to adorn the article."

Why Truth Goes Naked.

List to a tale well worth the ear
Of all who will and sense admire;
Invented—it is very clear—
Some ages prior to Matthew Prior.
Falseness and truth upon a time,
One day in time's delicious weather,
(Twas in a distant age and clime.)
Like sisters, took a walk together.
On their merry way they took,
Through fragrant wood and verdant
meadow,
To where a beech beside a brook
Invited rest beneath its shadow.
There, sitting in the pleasant shade,
Upon the margin's grassy matting,
(A velvet cushion ready made.)
The young companions fell to chatting.
Now, while in voluble discourse,
On this and that their tongues were running,
As habit bids each speak—perforce,
The one is frank; the other cunning.
Falseness at length impatient grows
With scandals of her own creation,
Said, "Since we two are quite alone,
And in the stream that runs between us,
Suppose in this delightful rill,
While all around is so propitious,
We take a bath?"—Said Truth, "I will."
A bath I'm sure, will be delicious!
At this her robe she cast aside,
And in the stream that ran before her
She plunged—like Ocean's happy bride—
Falseness at leisure now undressed,
Put off the robes her limbs that hamper,
And having donned Truth's snowy vest,
Ran off as fast as she could scamper.
Since then the subtle maid, in sooth,
Expert in lies and sardonic evasions,
Has borne the honest name of truth;
And wears her clothes on all occasions,
While truth declines to appear.
In Falseness's Petticoat and bodice
Still braves all eyes from year to year,
As naked as a marble goddess!
